Dr. Thomas Wright is one of the area's leaders in treating vein disease, which affects nearly 40 percent of women and 18 percent of men. His office, the Laser Lipo and Vein Center, uses cutting-edge technology to diagnose and treat varicose and spider veins and their causes.

Dr. Wright has authored and presented several scientific papers on new venous surgical procedures and uses research-proven techniques for optimal results. He was one of the first 200 diplomates of the American Board of Phlebology. He also performs cosmetic procedures, such as tumescent liposuction, which uses no general anesthesia and requires little downtime. A multiple Patients' Choice Award winner in practice for 18 years, Dr. Wright is one of few vein specialists preferred as a provider by all area insurance plans.
